Changes in the Old Burg

New B&B Now Open

Colleen (Byrne) Henderson (83) has purchased the Copeland House at 123 E. Water Street, Shullsburg. She is opening the home as a guest house in the spring of 2016. For several years Colleen had been looking for a house in the Shullsburg area to purchase as a gathering place for friends and family. The Copeland House had been for sale for several years... then on Sunday, July 5, 2015 it went up for auction. Under the influence and encouragement of her family, Colleen raised her hand for the winning bid and purchased the Copeland House. A couple brothers gave her quite the crazy woman look after the final "Sold" rang out! The excitement and nervousness began.

The extended Byrne family (and you know they are abundant) has come together to help Colleen fulfill her dream. For the past six months they have helped her clean up the property—trimming trees, weeding, planting and landscaping. The interior has been painted, original wood flooring refinished, and the home has been furnished and decorated. Colleen wants it to feel like home, so there is a mixture of antique Victorian and contemporary furnishings. She calls it 'eclectic Victorian'.

There are four guest rooms—Wicklow, Amore, Namaste and The Master. With her niece Kathryn providing design guidance and with input from other family members, each room was decorated with individual style. Each room has a comfortable queen bed, sitting area and its own bathroom with a walk-in shower.

Breakfast each morning will consist of a variety of pastries, quiches, breakfast casseroles, breakfast meats, fresh fruit, fresh squeezed juice as well as coffee and tea.

The warm, comfortable solarium overlooks the front yard as does the front porch with its relaxing rocking chairs. The library is furnished in memory of Colleen's husband, Dave, a brilliant erudite gentleman and bibliophile if there ever was one. There are a variety of gardens with shady spots to linger and enjoy the outdoors as well as a veranda at the back of the home to enjoy relaxing conversation in the shade. Evenings will allow guests to enjoy time outdoors sitting around one of two fire pits watching the stars. Check out the Copeland Guest House page on Facebook and plan your visit!

The existing building on the site will house lumber supplies. Darrell and Lisa hope to bring convenience and friendly service to local folks and area businesses. Watch for their store opening!

“The Burg” Now Open for Business

The Burg at 134 W. Water Street, Shullsburg, opened for business in November 2015 and has been getting good reviews and lots of local support.

The totally renovated interior pleases and surprises patrons who comment on the exposed brick walls and the dark wood bar and floors. Diners have enjoyed the soup and salad bar, the Friday night fish fry and other specials. The bar features tap beers, hard cider, and your favorite cocktails. Reunions, birthday parties and other celebrations are encouraged and accommodated. The Burg is open daily at 11:00 a.m.

New Exhibit to Open at Badger Mine & Museum

“Freedom is Not Free” is the new featured exhibit at the museum for the 2016 season that starts on Memorial Day. This exhibit will focus on local participants in the military from the Mexican War of 1846-1848 through World War I. Stories, photos, uniforms, medals and other related items will be on display. If you have additional items to lend for the exhibit or to donate to the museum’s permanent collection, please contact Michael or Mary Bradley at (608) 965-3076. Be sure to stop in to enjoy this fascinating exhibit of local history!

The museum is using grant monies received from the Shullsburg Fund in 2015 to institute a two-part plan called “Protecting Our Collection”. One part of the plan calls for the purchase of window coverings and archival storage boxes to protect sensitive items from UV damage. The second part is photographing, marking and entering descriptive data in the new Past Perfect Museum software for all artifacts in the museum’s collection. Ethan Sobbe, a Loras College history major, has been added to the staff for this extensive project. More grant monies will be sought in 2016 to improve their website and to enhance educational programming at the museum.
